

MAGNUS FIENNES

COMPOSER

Magnus Fiennes is a British composer, record producer, songwriter and creator of music-driven entertainment. He has written music for over a hundred hours of film, television and videogames and has worked with recording artists as diverse as Shakira, Tom Jones, Neneh Cherry, Massive Attack, Morcheeba, Marriane Faithfull, Bryan Ferry and Pulp.

Magnus's film scores include Onegin (1999), Chromophobia, (2005), Donkeys (2007), The Pervert's Guide To Ideology (2011) and several animated features such as Casper's Scare School (2006) and Here Comes Peter Cottontail (2005). He has written and produced additional music for Johnny English (2003), Five Seconds To Spare (2000), The Next Best Thing (2000) and Addicted To Love (1997).

TV work includes UK primetime shows such as Sky One's Curfew starring Sean Bean and Billy Zane, Death In Paradise (2011-2020), Hustle (2004- 2012) Murphy's Law (2005-2007) and The Fixer (ITV 2006-7). Other TV serials include Injustice (2008), The Last Enemy (2005), and Five Days (2007), winner of best music at Reims International TV awards 2008. He has composed music for over 200 commercials including campaigns for Coca Cola, Lotus, Caesar's Palace, Barclays Bank, Kraft, Cadbury's, Estee Lauder, Ford and Sega. He has also written music for Nintendo's Game-Boy console.

Magnus's career began in pop music. He co-wrote and co-produced much of All Saint's eponymous 1997 album including UK number one hit Never Ever. Further seminal productions include the Fat Les 1998 World Cup anthem Vindaloo (UK no. 2), Dot Allison's album 1999 Afterglow (leading to collaboration with Massive Attack on songs for Luc Besson's Danny The Dog), and Australian singer Alex Lloyd's platinum album 'Watching Angel's Mend' which was ARIA nominated for Producer Of the Year in 2002. Magnus is also known for shaping the crossover sound of the biggest-selling string quartet in history, controversial 'sex and violins' all-girl act Bond for whom he wrote and produced on three platinum-selling albums between 2002 and 2010.

Magnus created and produced the $20 million music-driven animated TV show Freefonix (2007) for BBC Worldwide. Over a hundred songs were written for the series and forty half-hour episodes aired globally. Freefonix was nominated Best Animated Kid's Show at Annecy Film Festival in 2008.

Other work includes music for ground-breaking digital art platform SLO Image in 2011 which exhibited at the National Portrait Gallery and the Victoria & Albert Museum and a collaboration in 2013 with immersive theatre company Punchdrunk on music for their seminal National Theatre co-production The Drowned Man and in 2015, composing a series of concert works for the world's largest stringed instrument, the Earth Harp.

Magnus is based between London and Los Angeles.

Magnus has worked with artists such as Pulp, Tom Jones and Morcheeba. In 1997 he produced the All Saints million seller single Never Ever - a No. 4 in the US and No. 1 throughout Europe; producing and co-writing on their eponymous 5 million selling album.

As an in demand producer arranger programmer and re-mixer, Magnus has worked with a diverse range of artists including Jamelia, Neneh Cherry, Marriane Faithful, Bryan Ferry, Hal David, Seal, Yello, Eagle-Eye Cherry, David McAlmont, Ian McCulloch, Roland Gift, Lenny Kravitz, Liberty X, Nigel Kennedy, Daniel Lanois, Trilok Gurtu, Damien Hirst, Dot Allison, Geneva and Metisse as well as pop acts such as the Spice Girls, Boyzone and currently on her 2010 world tour, Shakira. He also composed and produced much of the two multi-million selling albums from the controversial all-girl classical quartet Bond.

Further recent work includes producing the double platinum 'Watching Angels Mend' for Australian singer songwriter Alex Lloyd, a collaboration with prestigious Canadian violinist Lara St John on a ground-breaking album of 'Bach With Beats' for Sony Classical, co-writing material with Massive Attack and The Sugababes and co-writing and producing album tracks and singles for Bertine Zetlitz (a Norwegian number one).

In addition Magnus has written and produced a number of featured songs creating title song for Paramount's 'Addicted to Love' (featuring Neneh Cherry), Madonna's 'Next Best Thing' and Scala Pictures music biz satire 'Five Seconds to Spare.' He also produced tracks for Working Title's Rowan Atkinson vehicle 'Johnny English'.

Magnus has written music for many major commercial campaigns including Coca-Cola, Ford, Pepsi Cola, Gordons Gin, Grolsh, Railtrack, Caesar's Palace, Rover, Sega, Nintendo, Ferrero Rocher and Braun.

As a keyboard player he has toured extensively with blues guitar legend Gary Moore in an all-star line up with Pink Floyd's Guy Pratt on bass and jazz luminary Gary Husband on drums.
